

Participate in Our Water System!

Running our system is a team effort. We have a great staff committed to the daily operations, while the board provides responsible oversight and planning. In recent years we've had a few members who've taken an interest in the system and, by their participation, have become a valuable part of the process. They come with an interest in one or more of these three key areas:

An interest in our water system — From being curious about the water flowing to and from our faucets; to the mechanics of the system; to the running of the business.

An interest in community participation — Toward building cooperation with other water systems, fire & rescue, and other island organizations.

An interest in outreach — Connecting with our CWA members and customers, and our local community.

CWA invites interested members to become Participating Members in our water system. If you recognize yourself as such an individual, we'd love to meet and chat with you.
